All the above have the right not to be discriminated against, victimised, harassed or subjected to any other form of detriment because of any of the age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy & maternity, race, religion or belief, sex or sexual orientation and any infringement of the policy will not be tolerated. Disciplinary action will be considered in accordance with company policy regardless of whether the infraction takes place inside or outside company premises or inside or outside normal working hours.

PPSL District Heating Ltd. is responsible for the monitoring, updating and implementation of this policy.

Our aim and upholding the policy

The aim of this policy is to ensure that the company follows good employment practices, and all reasonable steps are taken to prevent discrimination on all grounds to all within the company. This policy should be always adhered to by all throughout the company. Managers and employees have a personal responsibility for the successful implementation of this policy; with the Head of HR taking overall responsibility to implement this throughout the company.

The company ensures the fair treatment of its employees by removing any barriers preventing the implementation of this policy. The policy applies to the advertisement, recruitment and appointment of jobs, conditions of work, training and promotion of an individual, remuneration and other employment practices that affect all levels of employees within the company.

As an organisation, we strive to:

- Accept that everyone has a right to their distinctive and diverse identities
- Understand how equal opportunity can improve our ability to compete in the marketplace
- Provide all employees with the training and development they need to achieve the company's aims and objectives
- Provide a supportive, open environment in which individuals can reach their highest potential.

PPSL District Heating Ltd aims to establish an inclusive culture, free from discrimination and based upon the values of dignity, courtesy and respect. Every person has a right to be treated in accordance with these values.

We aim to:

- promote a positive environment in which people are treated fairly and with respect.
- encourage all directors, staff and visitors to play a role in creating and maintaining an environment in which harassment, bullying and victimisation are understood to be unacceptable forms of behaviour.
- Provide a framework of support for directors, staff and visitors who feel that they have been the subject of harassment, bullying or victimization.
- Ensure that allegations of harassment, bullying or victimization are addressed fairly, with respect to the rights and dignity of all those involved; and
- Identify the appropriate formal processes by which complaints can be raised

Equal Pay

PPSL District Heating Ltd objectives relating to equal pay are to:

- Promote and achieve equality of opportunity for men and women
- Eliminate any unfair, unjust or unlawful practices that impact on pay.
- Take appropriate remedial action.
- Review other company policies to ensure consistency with equal pay principles.

To achieve these objectives, we will:

- Implement regular equal pay audits and reviews for all staff (including staff on maternity or sick leave).
- Provide training and guidance for staff involved in determining pay.
- Inform staff of how these practices work and how their own pay is determined.
- Respond to grievances on equal pay as a priority.
- Monitors pay statistics regularly and gather other relevant information to assess the impact of this Policy.
- Ensure that any differential in pay is due to a "material factor" such as skills and qualifications, performance and levels of responsibility.

Responsibility for this Policy and for ensuring that the company's policies and practices comply with equal pay legislation rests with the HR Department.

Decisions on initial placing of new staff and their salary scales will be taken by the appropriate Director and the Head of HR.

Monitoring and reviewing the policy

All employees and job applicants will be asked to supply equality-related data to the HR department. This data will only be used to monitor our equal opportunity policy and will be treated as sensitive confidential information. The information provided by job applicants will not be divulged to any people connected to the selection process.

Recruitment

The company is opposed to all forms of discrimination and will select for employment, training and promotion based on suitability for the job and/ or merit. It is company policy that no job applicant or employee receives less favorable treatment than another by any means of direct and indirect discrimination on the grounds of sex, race, colour, age, ethnic or national origins, sexual orientation political affiliations, religious beliefs, marital status, physical disablement or is disadvantaged by unjustifiable conditions or requirements.

We use a wide variety of recruitment methods to access the widest possible range of talent and experience in the marketplace, including but not limited to:

- external recruitment
- national advertising and CV searching
- job centre
- employment agencies
- internal recruitment, including personal recommendations

Our search for talent includes the employment of non-UK nationals to work within our organisation. We have a legal responsibility to ensure that all employees are eligible to live and work in the UK, and applicants are required to provide documentary proof upon commencement of employment.

For particularly scarce skills we may apply for a Certificate of Sponsorship (previously Work Permit) for candidates not already eligible to live and work in the UK (where meet government criteria are met). The UK Border Agency (UKBA) considers applications and determines eligibility to live and work in the UK.

Where a suitability skilled and qualified applicant has a disability, the Company will do its utmost to make reasonable adjustments to enable them to carry out their duties.

Training

The equal opportunities policy is supported by a clear commitment from PPSL District Heating Ltd senior management that any form of discrimination or harassment, even in its mildest forms, will not be tolerated.

Training in equality and diversity issues for all staff will be implemented as appropriate, with the aim of eliminating discrimination and harassment at all levels of the organisation. Employees will be informed of what is (and what is not) acceptable behavior at work and that harassment offends, stops employees working effectively, and can lead to illness and/or resignation. Managers and those who take part in recruitment will receive more in-depth training.

The combination of training and implementation of policies and procedures aims to create a climate within the organisation that is hostile to any form of discrimination or harassment. Employees should never find themselves in an uncomfortable working environment where they do not complain because they fear they will not be taken seriously, fear victimisation, fear being regarded as a troublemaker or because they feel that complaining would be embarrassing.

Equality in Service Provision

In line with our policy the company and its staff under the terms of the Equality Act 2010 will not discriminate against, harass nor refuse to provide our expected service nor a less favorable service without reason based on a 'protected characteristic' to any client or member of the public who access our goods, facilities and services. Likewise, any complaint from a PPSL District Heating Ltd employee who experiences discrimination in any form from a client or member of the public will be taken seriously.

Disability

Employees who are disabled or become disabled during their employment with the company should inform and advise the company of any requirements, or adjustments they may feel are necessary to assist with the performance of their duties. Wherever practicable and reasonable the Company will accommodate such requests.

Procedure

The company will ensure that all employees who raise a grievance relating to any form of discrimination will not be penalized unless actions are found to be untrue or made in bad faith.
